8. Trail Conditions

The Fox Way is scenic circular course was devised by Richard Fox, an avid local walker who was amazed by the beautiful and varied countryside he found along the route. Keen to share his findings, Richard set about signing and publicising his "Fox Way." The Ultra route follows the Fox Way for it's entirety. The Marathon course starts in East Clandon and follows the Fox Way clockwise through to Godalming. The Half Marathon course begins in Worplesdon and follows the final 20km section of the route to our Godalming finish.

The trails and roads are open-access for the public. You will see the Fox Way indicated on recent OS maps of the area. The road sections will be open to traffic and trails open to other users on race day. Please take care whilst navigating the road sections and be aware of others users out enjoying the trails.

There are a few major road crossings on the course to be aware of. The Worplesdon Road in Worplesdon, the A320 south of Mayford, the A246 at Clandon and A25 in Shere are all busy roads where you will need to stop and wait for a gap in the traffic.

The Fox Way covers a range of terrain, from beautiful bluebell woods near Bramley village, to canal pathway past Ripley, sandy trails at Whitmore and Blackheath Commons, and grassy farm fields at Shackleford.

10. Medical Support & Casualty Procedure

The Fox Ultra events are a serious physical challenge and you are going to be working hard to complete your selected distance. If you follow some of the key advice points below you are almost guaranteed to make it to the finish!

- Keep hydrated. Sip water little and often and try not to solely rely on energy drinks and gels.
- If you have a niggle, address it: stretch out and/or talk to a member of the medical team at the next marshal point. Take care of the small things to achieve the big goal!
- Bring your own small medical kit with plasters and some sort of pain relief. The medical team are there to help but may be called away to deal with serious issues.
- Ticks are present along the route. To prevent bites you can wear long sleeved clothing or a repellent. If you find one on you then remove it if you are confident to do so or ask a member of the medical team to assist you.
- There will be medical support for the duration of the event; they are here just in case anything serious happens. However, if it is a true emergency call 999 first and then notify the Event Team.

11. Spectators/Support Crew

Friends and family are more than welcome to come and cheer you on as you take on your own personal challenge. However, there are some guidelines below that will aid us in the smooth running of the event.

- Any spectators must abide by the Highway Code
- Please respect members of the public who will also be on the route.
- We ask that spectators do not site themselves at the aid stations; this is likely to be a very busy area with competitors refuelling in a limited space. The only aid stations with capacity to host crew are Ripley and Godalming.
- Don't drop litter. Dispose of your litter in the bins provided or take it away.

12. Charities & Sponsors

ULTRA magazine is the UK's first printed magazine centred on ultra long-distance running. It celebrates the ultra community – runners, friends, families, volunteers and race organisers – giving space for people to share their adventures with others, their successes and failures, their stories and exploits, their words and pictures, via a beautifully printed, quality publication.

ULTRA informs new and existing runners of races around the world via passionate stories and stunning photographs that show off the wonderful landscapes upon which we run. It has race reports and interesting commentaries written by ultra runners, and looks forward to events coming in the next couple of months. There are race times from recent events, and even a few pages about how people can better look after themselves with a little coaching, nutrition and medical advice.

ULTRA is welcoming of everyone, whether they're elites or people just thinking about taking part. Or even family and friends of ultra runners who don't yet understand the sport. It is something beautiful and informative that I hope we'll all be proud of.

Salming are an Icelandic company producing no-nonsense kit for many sports including running. Salming are kindly providing prize vouchers for our Fox winners. The Salming Spring 2018 apparel focuses on functional design excellence. If you're looking to update your kit, this is a great place to start.

Eye-Bex Physical Therapy will provide massage on the finish line. Kick start your recovery with a 15 min post event massage to boost your recuperation, reduce muscle soreness and restore range of motion to those muscles that have just powered you round the route. They'll thank you for it! £10 per 15 mins.

13. What you'll see along the route...

Blackheath Common: After crossing the railway line at Brook you will turn off the road into Blackheath Common. A warren of winding paths criss-cross the lowland heath which is an SSSI. Follow the arrows and you'll find your way with no problem!

Shere: The picturesque village of Shere appears in the Domesday Book of 1086 - it's assets included 1 church, 2 mills, and woodland worth 50 hogs! Today the population boasts a high number of London commuters amongst their numbers. The Dabbling Duck cafe, White Horse and William Bray Pub all make good stops for those with weary legs!

Newark Priory: After crossing the A247 at Send you'll continue running along the canal. Once you're in open fields keep your eyes peeled for Newark Priory across the canal to your left. Founded in 1199 by the Bishop of Winchester and run by the Canons of St Augustine the Priory met a sticky end in 1535 during Henry 8th's dissolution of the monasteries. There's an annual chance of a closer look - a 6am dawn service is held in the Priory on Easter day each year.

Worplesdon Common: At Worplesdon Common the open heathland was created by centuries of cutting and grazing by local residents. The common now supports an abundance of wildlife including water voles.

Puttenham Common: Puttenham Common is the site of the Iron Age Hillbury Fort, the banks of which can still be seen today to the right as you pass a body of water known as the Tarn. As you approach the chalk ridge of the North Downs you'll pass through the village of Puttenham which has a long agricultural history - hops are still grown here and used by the Hogs Back Brewery.

Peper Harow Estate: After Eashing you'll cross the A3 (don't worry, there's a bridge!) into the Peper Harow estate. The name is Old English, meaning "The pagan stone altar of the pipers." During the Second World War the estate was a holding area for Canadian Forces. In the 1970s the Peper Harow residential community founded by Melvyn Rose was internationally renowned for its pioneering work with traumatised young people.

Wilfred Noyce: Godalming - Wilfred Noyce was a Mountaineer and Author who was educated and later taught at Charterhouse School just up the road from our start/finish venue. Noyce was a member of the 1953 British Expedition to Everest and was among the first in the team to reach the South Col. Noyce met the successful summit team of Edmund Hillary and Tenzing Norgay at the Col.

If adventure has a final and all-embracing motive, it is surely this: we go out because it is our nature to go out, to climb mountains, and to paddle rivers, to fly to the planets and plunge into the depths of the oceans... When man ceases to do these things, he is no longer man.

— Wilfrid Noyce —
